

FALL QUARTER WRAP UP

WHAT WAS SHARE UP TO THIS QUARTER?

SHARE hosted multiple events this quarter to spread information and resources on violence prevention on campus.

DDVAM EVENTS

This quarter SHARE hosted two events to recognize Dating and Domestic Violence Awareness Month (DDVAM). The first was a tabling event centered around education on healthy relationships, and the second was a two part Yoga as Healing event for those on campus who have been impacted by Domestic Violence with a special emphasis on LGBTQ+ survivors.

GENERAL EVENTS

in addition to DDVAM events, SHARE also hosted an Open House event to introduce the campus to our office and resources, a Self Care Study break event to provide students with a mental health break during finals, and a conversation circle in response to Beyond Sex Ed to offer a space to process the performance.

OTHER PROGRAMMING

This quarter, we also offered non-event related resources and programming. We provided Upstander training to student groups on campus, re-started our Flip the Script program, included four new students in our Ambassador program, and are in the process of developing a training guide on violence prevention catered toward Greek Life. Additionally, we have partnered with the PEERS to assist them in spreading health and wellness education across campus. You can request a workshop from PEERS here!

THIS QUARTER IN NUMBERS

This Quarter....

- 1 Over 3000 people attended a SHARE event or training
- 2 4 New Ambassadors were added to our Ambassador Program
- 3 Over 50 new people signed on to our listserv
- 4 SHARE developed and continued partnerships with over 15 on campus organizations

Fall Quarter Reflections

Throughout this quarter, student groups and organizations have engaged in and hosted a multitude of protests, teach ins, and events to spread awareness on sexual assault and violence on campus.

This reinvigorated passion for preventing campus sexual violence has contributed to established efforts to foster a culture of consent at Stanford. As a SHARE team, we are dedicated to partnering with and being in solidarity with our campus communities as we work together to end sexual violence and develop sexual citizenship.

WRAP UP

LOOKING FORWARD

In the upcoming quarter, SHARE has multiple events planned to continue our efforts in spreading education in the campus community. The two awareness months we will be recognizing this upcoming quarter are Stalking Awareness Month and Healthy Relationships month.

During stalking awareness month, we are planning to host a screening and discussion of an episode from the Netflix TV show: You, in partnership with the WCC. We are also planning an awareness raising tabling event, and anti-stalking trainings for freshman dorms.

During Healthy Relationships Month we are planning a trauma informed Yoga as Healing Event catered toward BIPOC, LGBTQ+ students who have been affected by sexual or relationship violence. We will be hosting this event in partnership with QSR.

We will also be continuing to develop our Ambassador program, our partnerships with other student organizations like QSR, the PEERS, and OSRL, our Violence Intervention and Prevention (VIP) program, and our online and in person training and educational resources. If you would like to get involved with the Ambassador Program, you can register here. Additionally you can join our listserv here or follow us on instagram at @shareatstanford.
